

the friend who happens to sell real estate... from here.

— what we built for september, why it looks
the way it does, and what it does for your business.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY
FROM THE VALLEY

people don't follow an agent.
they follow a person who knows the block.

1 you're from here.

van nuys, sherman oaks, the boulevard, the stations. every post is stamped with a neighborhood and a zip, so the grid slowly becomes a map of the valley with you on it.

2 you translate the scary parts.

reserve studies, buydowns, backup insurance. in your posts they become the savings account, paying a little now, the state's fire policy. nobody has to feel dumb to follow you.

3 you protect people.

your own words: "i'm here for you. that's my job. i do this to protect you and your best interest." that line ends everything now.

the flywheel.

01 · LOCAL SIGNAL

what's actually happening on your streets

02 · YOUR TAKE

a 60-second voice memo

03 · REEL + CAROUSEL

in the valley native look

04 · THE ASK

"send me the address"

05 · YOUR REPLY

the saved DM

06 · WHAT WE LEARN

who wrote, what they asked

one loop, every week. the signal gives you something real to say, the memo makes it yours, the reel earns attention, the carousel earns saves, the ask starts a conversation, your reply keeps it human... and what people write back tells us what to make next.

what “go-to agent in the valley” looks like on your grid.

1 a numbered series.

first-time buyer file, no. 01, 02, 03... people collect a series. they scroll past a post.

2 a stamp on every post.

the neighborhood and the zip, same spot every time. recognizable at thumbnail size before anyone reads a word.

3 your face on the cover, real valley places inside.

no stock, no orange, no serif-over-a-warm-photo like the other sixteen agents. your navy line drawings are the identity.

4 the same close, every time.

“i’m here for you. that’s my job.” in 90 days it’s the thing people quote back to you.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

your week, about three hours.

- 1 one voice memo.
sixty seconds on the topic, in your words. everything gets written from it, never before it.

 - 2 two reels, one carousel.
film both reels in one sitting. the carousel goes out the day after its reel and does the saving-and-sending work.

 - 3 reply the same evening.
comments and DMs are where the pipeline starts. the saved reply is written; you paste and personalize.

 - 4 that's it.
no daily posting. no trends. the right pace is the one you can hold without becoming a worse agent.

what we need from you.

1 three phone photos.

you on a van nuys sidewalk. you at a condo building's front door. you holding an HOA packet. they replace the grid grabs on the covers.

2 your real take on the train.

the light-rail reel has an opinion drafted for you. say it your way on a voice memo and it gets rebuilt around that.

3 how many you can film in a sitting.

the plan assumes two reels and one carousel a week. if that's too many, say so and it shrinks.

4 if a line isn't you, say so.

every script ends on your words. if any of them don't sound like you, it's gone.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

the first post is ready.

- 1 reel 1: the building has to qualify too.
"your credit can be perfect... and the condo still falls through." forty seconds, kitchen or car.
- 2 then the condo carousel, the next day.
seven slides in the valley native look, you on the cover and the close.
- 3 then the reply.
when the first address arrives, the DM is already written in your recap voice. paste, personalize, send.

everything works out exactly the way it's supposed to.

the saved reply, when an address arrives.

save both in instagram under saved replies. paste, add their name, send within the hour. the routing question goes second, never first.

REPLY 1 · THE ADDRESS CAME IN

got it... give me a day with the numbers and i'll come back with what i'd read first, what i'd ask the listing agent, and what we do next. we'll go from there.

REPLY 2 · THE NEXT DAY, WITH THE NUMBERS

okay, i read it. here's what i'd read first, here's the one question i'd ask the listing agent, and here's what i'd do next. are you actually looking this fall, or just keeping an eye on things? either is fine... i just want to point you the right way.
