

- Resonance — Visual Prompts for Manual Deployment
 - Hard rules (every prompt carries these — do not delete from any deploy)
 - How to deploy (3-line workflow)
 - VARIANT A — Editorial Broadsheet (terracotta + midnight + cream)
 - A1 — Two-body recognition (HERO)
 - A2 — Wide room, peak energy moment
 - VARIANT B — Latin-American Modernism (terracotta + ochre + moss + cream)
 - B1 — Two-body Latin recognition (HERO)
 - B2 — Wide architectural / room with sun
 - VARIANT C — Restrained Marble + Sage + Gold (minimal, adult, considered)
 - C1 — Small group, intimate
 - C2 — Two-body intimate, marble + brass
 - Reference scout deck (upload alongside text where supported)
 - Iteration protocol (when the first generation is close but not there)
 - What success looks like (for Farrice's taste pass)
 - What's NOT in this doc (and why)

Resonance — Visual Prompts for Manual Deployment

Paste these directly into ChatGPT (GPT Image 2) or Gemini (Nano Banana Pro). MCP-pipeline image generation is paused. You drive the platform; we drive the prompt language.

Why this exists (one paragraph): v1 (Fal/fantastic-posters) produced museum-coded posed framing. v2 (Higgsfield Nano Banana 2) regressed in detail and drifted to same-sex pairings, age miscalibration, and AI-slop anatomy. Both runs failed Andrea's brief at the body-language layer. The fix is not another MCP attempt — it's tighter prompt grammar deployed on the strongest available consumer models (GPT Image 2, Nano Banana Pro) where you can iterate live.

Hard rules (every prompt carries these — do not delete from any deploy)

1. Heterosexual M/F partnership focus. The brand exists for adults seeking committed partners; the visual language must show male-female recognition. No same-sex pairings in hero shots. Group shots may include mixed friendships, but the romantic recognition beat is always M/F.
 2. Age: 30 to 38. Early 30s to mid-late 30s. No 20-somethings. No 45+. If the model drifts younger, add "early-to-mid 30s, mature faces, not in their 20s."
 3. Multicultural cast, real specificity. Anchor to the ICP: a Latina woman (Costa Rican / Mexican / Colombian features, not generic "olive"); a Black woman (mixed-Caribbean or African-American, natural or styled hair, not flattened); a Black man (40s-adjacent, athletic, designer/creative posture — Marcus archetype); a white man with Polish/Italian features (architect posture — Daniel archetype); occasionally a Filipino or Korean adult to honor Chicago's actual demographic mix. Never default to "diverse" as a checkbox — name the specifics.
 4. Anti-AI-slop language (paste verbatim at the end of every prompt):
Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render.
 5. Body language: connection, not detachment. From photography-rules.md §6.5 — connection cues: laughing, eye contact, hand-on-shoulder, mid-conversation pose, leaning in, dancing facing partner. Disconnection cues (BANNED): from-behind static groups, looking-away-at-DJ, single-isolated-body, posed-staring-at-camera, hands-in-air stadium pose.
 6. Daylight + sober + curated. West-facing window light, 2-5pm hour, no bar, no glassware. A 40-50 person room, not a stadium.
 7. No type, no logos, no overlays. These are photographs, not posters. If the model adds text, regenerate.
-

How to deploy (3-line workflow)

1. Open ChatGPT (GPT-4o or GPT Image 2 endpoint) OR Gemini (Nano Banana Pro tier).

2. Paste the chosen prompt verbatim. If platform supports image upload, attach 1-2 references from the scout deck at the bottom.
 3. Generate 4 variants per prompt. Pick the strongest. If anatomy fails, regenerate with the slop-rejection paragraph re-emphasized at the top.
-

VARIANT A — Editorial Broadsheet (terracotta + midnight + cream)

Reference register: 1978 record jacket in actual sunlight. Wong Kar-wai / Christopher Doyle interiority. Boiler Room Danny Tenaglia Loft NYC 2013 intimacy.

A1 — Two-body recognition (HERO)

Photograph, 35mm film grain, daylight interior of a Chicago loft at 3pm. West-facing window cuts a diagonal of pale sunlight across a worn wood floor. A Latina woman in her mid-30s (Costa Rican features, brown skin, dark hair pulled back imperfectly, soft cotton tank top, no makeup detectable on camera) is mid-conversation with a Black man in his late 30s (athletic build, short fade, linen shirt unbuttoned at collar). They are facing each other, leaning slightly inward, her hand resting on the side of his forearm, his head tilted in genuine listening. She is mid-laugh, eyes crinkled. He is smiling but quieter, the half-smile of someone who just heard something that landed. Behind them, four to six adults aged 32 to 38 are visible but out of focus — two of them dancing facing each other (also M/F), one woman sipping water from a glass mason jar, no alcohol anywhere. A vinyl record player and two turntables are visible on a wooden console in the deep background.

Color palette: terracotta orange (#B8492E), midnight blue (#0F1A2E), warm cream (#FBF7F0), deep ink brown (#1A1814). Light is warm late-afternoon, not golden-hour cliché — the color of light at 3pm in October. The terracotta reads on a draped cotton throw over a midcentury armchair, the midnight on the woman's vintage Levi's, the cream on the walls.

Reference register: Wong Kar-wai with Christopher Doyle, In the Mood for Love loft intimacy. Boiler Room Danny Tenaglia Loft NYC 2013 – the camera-with-the-dancers register, not the camera-watching-the-DJ register. Late-afternoon, sober, curated, adult.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

A2 — Wide room, peak energy moment

Photograph, 35mm, daytime interior of a 50-person curated dance event in Chicago at 4pm. West-facing windows pour pale sunlight across a wood floor. The room holds about 45 adults aged 30 to 38, multicultural cast – Latina, Black, white, East Asian, South Asian – dressed in considered weekend daywear (linen, cotton, denim, no clubwear, no stilettos). The frame catches a peak-energy moment: a Black man in his late 30s and a Latina woman in her mid-30s are dancing facing each other in mid-ground, hands almost touching, both mid-laugh. Behind them, a white man with Polish-Italian features in his mid-30s (architect-posture, lean, button-down with sleeves rolled) is leaning in to hear a Filipino woman in her early 30s – their faces close, not touching. The DJ booth is small, low, integrated – Andrea (Costa Rican woman, 40s, warm presence, headphones on one ear) is visible at the back, hand on a fader, smiling at someone on the floor. No bar. Glass water pitchers on a side table. Late-afternoon light only.

Color palette: terracotta orange (#B8492E) on a hanging textile, midnight blue (#0F1A2E) on the speaker cabinets and three garments, warm cream (#FBF7F0) on the walls, deep ink (#1A1814) on the wood floor.

Reference register: Boiler Room Danny Tenaglia Loft NYC 2013 – camera at human eye-level, in the dance, not above it. Brian Welsh's Beats (2019) embrace shots – daylight interior, real bodies, real recognition. NOT a stadium festival, NOT a posed magazine spread.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

VARIANT B — Latin-American Modernism (terracotta + ochre + moss + cream)

Reference register: Casa Wabi adobe walls. Mexico City courtyard at 2pm. Cuarón / Lubezki's Y Tu Mamá También — humid, alive, body-first. Cercle Adana Twins at Palais Longchamp (Oct 2019) — daytime, architectural, dancing not posing.

B1 — Two-body Latin recognition (HERO)

Photograph, 35mm film grain, daytime interior of a Chicago loft converted to feel like a Mexico City living-room – adobe-toned walls, an unglazed terracotta pot in the corner, a moss-green tile detail visible at floor level, a single tropical plant (monstera) catching sunlight. 2pm light through tall west-facing windows. A Colombian woman in her mid-30s (warm brown skin, dark hair loose, gold hoop earrings, a soft cream linen dress) is dancing facing a Black man in his late 30s (mixed-Caribbean features, short locs, ochre-colored guayabera-style shirt unbuttoned at the top).

Their hands are clasped at chest height, mid-rhythm, her head tilted back in a real laugh, his face open with the half-second-before-laughing tension. They are dancing to something with a heartbeat – implied by their body weight, not by motion blur. Around them, six to eight adults aged 30 to 38 are visible in soft focus, also M/F pairs and small mixed-gender clusters in conversation, multicultural cast (white, Black, Latina, East Asian). No bar. Andrea (Costa Rican, 40s, warm, headphones) visible in deep background at a small DJ booth.

Color palette: warm terracotta (#A8412A) on the walls and one woman's wrap skirt, ochre (#B8843C) on the man's shirt and a brass lamp, moss green (#36513A) on the floor tile and a plant pot, cream (#FAF4E6) on the woman's dress and on the linen window curtain. Deep ink (#1C1611) on the wood floor and the woman's hair.

Reference register: Cuarón / Lubezki's Y Tu Mamá También – humid, real, body-first, the camera is a participant. Casa Wabi adobe interiors photographed by Tadao Ando's collaborators. Cercle Adana Twins Palais Longchamp Oct 2019 – daylight courtyard, architectural restraint, bodies that have weight.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

B2 — Wide architectural / room with sun

Photograph, 35mm, daytime interior of a 50-person curated dance event in a converted Chicago warehouse with adobe-toned walls and exposed wood beams. 2:30pm light pours through tall windows. The room holds about 45 adults aged 30 to 38, multicultural – the cast skews Latin / Black / Filipino with white and East Asian present, all in considered daywear (linen, cotton, soft drapes; no streetwear, no clubwear). Mid-frame:

a Latina woman in her early 30s is mid-twirl, her cream skirt catching the light, her partner (a white man with Polish-Italian features, mid-30s, soft button-down) is catching her hand mid-spin, both laughing. Foreground: a Black woman in her mid-30s (mixed-Caribbean) leans against a moss-tiled column, listening to a Korean man in his mid-30s (architect glasses, ochre sweater), their bodies oriented toward each other. Background: Andrea (Costa Rican, 40s) at a small DJ booth tucked into the corner, not on a stage. No bar. Glass water pitchers on a wooden side table. Tropical plants where there would normally be speakers.

Color palette: terracotta (#A8412A) on walls and ceramics, ochre (#B8843C) on textiles and one sweater, moss (#36513A) on tile detail and pots, cream (#FAF4E6) on walls and several garments, deep ink (#1C1611) on the wood floor.

Reference register: Cercle Adana Twins Palais Longchamp Oct 2019 – daylight courtyard, architectural restraint. Cuarón / Lubezki's Y Tu Mamá También party scenes – alive, adult, real. NOT festival photography, NOT EDM stage shots, NOT magazine staged.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

VARIANT C — Restrained Marble + Sage + Gold (minimal, adult, considered)

Reference register: a marble table at 3pm, sage tea cooling, unvarnished brass in soft daylight. Sofia Coppola's Lost in Translation interior register (without the alienation). Hou Hsiao-hsien's quiet daylight scenes.

C1 — Small group, intimate

Photograph, 35mm film grain, daytime interior of a minimalist Chicago loft at 3pm.
Pale sage-painted walls, a single travertine-marble side table catching west-facing light, an unvarnished brass floor lamp (off, just the form). Six adults aged 30 to 38 are arranged loosely in conversation, multicultural cast: a Filipino woman in her mid-30s (cream silk top, gold studs) is mid-laugh, facing a white man in his mid-30s with Polish-Italian features (soft black sweater, architect's restraint). Beside them, a Black man in his late 30s (Marcus archetype – athletic, designer eyewear, sage-green overshirt) is in genuine listening posture toward a Latina woman in her early 30s (natural makeup, dark hair, ink-black wide-leg trousers, gold thin chain). All bodies are angled toward each other – no one is performing for the camera. Background: a small DJ booth with Andrea (Costa Rican, 40s, headphones) at a low table with two turntables. No bar, no glasses raised. A single matcha-green ceramic teacup on the marble table.

Color palette: deep ink (#1A1814), sage green (#4B5849), brass gold (#9C7833), cream (#FDFAF3). The sage reads on the walls and one overshirt, the gold on one woman's jewelry and the brass lamp, the ink on trousers and the wood floor, the cream on the walls of the next room and the silk top. Terracotta (#A14A30) used minimally – a single ceramic teapot on a far shelf.

Reference register: Sofia Coppola interior register without the alienation. Hou Hsiao-hsien's daylight conversations. Wong Kar-wai with restraint dialed up. Boiler Room
Pre-Dawn Loft style camera – close, eye-level, in-the-room.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

C2 — Two-body intimate, marble + brass

Photograph, 35mm, daytime interior of a minimalist Chicago loft at 3:30pm. A single ribbon of pale sunlight crosses a travertine-marble counter. A Latina woman in her mid-30s (Costa Rican / Mexican features, brown skin, natural hair, gold thin chain, cream silk camisole, sage trousers) is mid-laugh, leaning against the marble counter, her hand resting open on the surface. Facing her at close-conversation distance is a Black man in his late 30s (mixed-Caribbean, lean build, brass-gold colored linen overshirt, dark trousers). His head is tilted in real listening, his fingers wrapped around a small ceramic teacup of matcha. Their bodies form an open triangle with the counter – they are at recognition distance, not stranger distance. Soft focus background shows two more adults mid-conversation (a white woman in her early 30s with a Korean man in his mid-30s) and Andrea at her DJ booth in deep background.

Color palette: deep ink (#1A1814) on trousers and the wood floor, sage green (#4B5849) on her trousers and one wall, brass gold (#9C7833) on his overshirt and the floor lamp, cream (#FDFAF3) on her camisole and on the marble veins, single accent of terracotta (#A14A30) on a small ceramic vase.

Reference register: Hou Hsiao-hsien's daylight intimacy. Sofia Coppola's Lost in Translation hotel-bar register (without the loneliness – replace it with recognition).
A Wong Kar-wai loft scene with the saturation pulled back.

Anatomically correct human proportions. Five fingers per hand, no extra digits, no fused fingers, no merged limbs, no duplicate body parts. Real photography fidelity. Skin texture has pores, not airbrushed. Eyes focused, not glassy. No mutated faces. No extra arms or legs in the background. Reject any AI-painting feel; this is a photograph, not a render. No text, no logos, no captions on the image.

Reference scout deck (upload alongside text where supported)

Both ChatGPT (with vision) and Gemini Pro accept image references. Upload 1-2 from this list per prompt:

Reference	Search to find image	Use for
Boiler Room — Danny Tenaglia Loft NYC 2013	YouTube search "Boiler Room Danny Tenaglia Loft" + screenshot a mid-set frame with dancers visible	A1, A2, C1 — camera-in-the-dance register
Cercle — Adana Twins Palais Longchamp (Oct 2019)	YouTube search "Cercle Adana Twins Palais Longchamp" + screenshot daylight courtyard frame	B1, B2 — daytime architectural
Brian Welsh — Beats (2019) embrace scene	Google image search "Beats 2019 film embrace"	A1, B1 — real adult body recognition
Wong Kar-wai — In the Mood for Love loft	Google image search "In the Mood for Love loft interior"	A1, C1, C2 — interior intimacy
Cuarón / Lubezki — Y Tu Mamá También party	Google image search "Y Tu Mama Tambien party scene"	B1, B2 — humid, alive, body-first
Casa Wabi adobe interior	Google image search "Casa Wabi adobe interior"	B1, B2 — Latin modernism surface
Sofia Coppola — Lost in Translation hotel bar	Google image search "Lost in Translation hotel bar"	C1, C2 — minimal adult restraint

Saving 8-12 of these to a single folder before deploying gives you a personal scout deck to attach.

Iteration protocol (when the first generation is close but not there)

Failure mode	Fix in the prompt
Models look too young	Replace "30 to 38" with "early-to-mid 30s, mature faces, eye crinkles when smiling, not in their 20s." Add "no Gen Z styling."

Failure mode	Fix in the prompt
Same-sex pairing drift	Re-emphasize at the top: "Heterosexual male-female pair, romantic recognition register." Name the man's role first, then the woman, then their orientation toward each other.
AI-slop anatomy (extra fingers, fused limbs)	Move the slop-rejection paragraph to the TOP of the prompt, not the bottom. Increase weight by repeating "no extra fingers, no fused limbs, no duplicate body parts" twice.
Cast feels generic-diverse	Replace "multicultural" with specific named ethnicities: "Costa Rican woman, Black mixed-Caribbean man, Polish-Italian white man, Filipino woman, Korean man."
Same-set / posed for camera	Add: "Nobody is looking at the camera. The camera is a participant in the room, not an observer. 35mm film, handheld, not still."
Too festival-y / EDM-coded	Add: "This is NOT a music festival. NOT a stadium. NOT EDM stage lighting. This is a 50-person room, sober, daytime, considered."
Wrong palette dominance	Re-list the palette at the END after the slop-rejection paragraph. Specify which color goes on which surface (walls / clothing / textile / wood).

What success looks like (for Farrice's taste pass)

A v3 hero shot earns PASS only if it scores YES on every line:

- ☐ M/F partnership recognition is unmistakable in the foreground
- ☐ Ages read as 30-38 — not younger, not older
- ☐ Specific multicultural cast (not "ambiguously brown")
- ☐ Daylight is real — west-facing window, late afternoon, not golden-hour cliché
- ☐ Body language reads as recognition (laugh, lean-in, eye contact, hand-on-arm)
- ☐ No anatomical errors visible at standard zoom
- ☐ Palette matches the variant DESIGN.md spec
- ☐ No text, no logos, no overlays

- ☐ The image makes Andrea say "yes" — not "almost"

If 8/9 PASS → use it. If 7/9 → regenerate with the iteration fix. If <7/9 → re-read this doc and identify which line of the prompt drifted.

What's NOT in this doc (and why)

- No video prompts. v3 stays still-photography only until at least 4 of 6 still shots PASS the taste call.
 - No type / poster prompts. Those live in fantastic-posters (Fal pipeline) when we get to Phase 2.
 - No fashion-photographer prompts. Editorial-fashion register is what failed v1. We stay in cinematic / lifestyle / Boiler Room register.
-

Source-anchored to: 00-foundation/02-icp-master.md (ICP profiles), 01-visual/photography-rules.md §6.5 (body language register), 01-visual/aesthetic-references-v2.md (v2 reference culture), evolution_store/failure_log_2026-05-26_visual-and-density.md (v1 failure), and the v2 failure log being written now.